ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[0019] A pair of identically constructed door handles each have a pocket hole which can be axially aligned with a hole in a door leaf, and a threaded transverse bore which intersects the pocket hole. A pin has a middle portion which is received in the hole in the leaf, and first and second end portions which are received in respective pocket holes, the first end portion having a circumferential groove, the second end portion having a plurality of blind holes which are offset axially and circumferentially. First and second setscrews are received in respective transverse bores, the first setscrew engaging the circumferential groove in the first end portion, the second setscrew engaging one of the blind holes in the second end portion.
